WILSON WANTS U. S. TO MOVE TO END ALL WARS

President Takes Second Step in Peace Program in Outlining to Senate Part New World Must Play in Covenants Between Nations.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Senate Chamber, Capitol, Washington, Jan. 22.—An appeal that the United States outline the principles of a league of nations to make future wars an impossibility was made by President Wilson today. Unexpectedly he took the second step in his effort to end the European war. In an address to the senate, which shares with him the power to handle the foreign affairs of the nation, the president outlined what in his opinion is necessary to end the struggle and to make certain that it will be the last great conflict.

The president declared that he proposed a "Monroe Doctrine for all of the people of the world." He said that he proposed that no nation shall seek to extend its policy over any other nation or people but that every people shall be left free to determine its own policy.

He insisted that the war must be ended on treaties which will embody terms which will win the approval of mankind.

"No covenant of co-operative peace which does not include the peoples of the new world," he said, "can suffice to keep the future safe against war. Elements of peace must engage the confidence and satisfy the principles of American government. * * * If the peace presently to be made is to endure, it must be a peace made secure by the organized major force of mankind.

"The terms of the immediate peace agreed upon will determine whether it is a peace for which such a guarantee can be secured. The question upon which the whole future peace and policy of the world depends is this. Is the present war a struggle for a just and secure peace, or only for a new balance of power? If it be only a struggle for a new balance of power, who will guarantee, who can guarantee, the stable equilibrium of the new arrangement? Only a tranquil Europe can be a stable Europe. There must be, not a balance of power but community of power, not organized rivalries, but an organized common peace.

Fortunately we have received very explicit assurances on this point. The statesmen of both of the groups of nations now arrayed against one another have said, in terms that could not be misinterpreted, that it was no part of the purpose they had in mind to crush their antagonists. But the implications of these assurances may not be equally clear to all—may not be the same on both sides of the water. I think it will be serviceable if I attempt to set forth what we understand them to be.

"They imply, first of all, that it must be a peace without victory. It is not pleasant to say this. I beg that I may be permitted to put my own interpretation upon it and that it may be understood that no other interpretation was in my thought. I am seeking only to face realities and to face them without soft concealments. Victory would mean peace forced upon the loser, a victor's terms imposed upon the vanquished. It would be accepted in humiliation, under duress, at an intolerable sacrifice, and would leave a sting, a resentment, a bitter memory upon which terms of peace would rest, not permanently, but only as upon quicksand. Only a peace between equals can last. Only a peace the very principle of which is equality and a common participation in a common benefit. The right state of mind, the right feeling between nations, is as necessary for a lasting peace as is the just settlement of vexed questions of territory or of racial and national allegiance.

"The equality of nations upon which peace must be founded if it is to last must be an equality of rights; the guarantees exchanged must neither recognize nor imply a difference between big nations and small, between those that are powerful and those that are weak. Right must be based upon the common strength, not upon the individual strength of the nations upon whose concert peace will depend. Equality of territory or of resources there of course cannot be; nor any other sort of equality not gained in the ordinary peaceful and legitimate development of the peoples themselves. But no one asks or expects anything more than an equality of rights. Mankind is looking now for freedom of life, not for equipoises of power.

"And there is a deeper thing involved than even equality of right among organized nations. No peace can last, or ought to last, which does not recognize and accept the principle that governments derive all their just powers from the consent of the governed, and that no right anywhere exists to hand peoples about from sovereignty to sovereignty as if they were property. I take it for granted, for instance, if I may venture upon a single example, that statesmen everywhere are agreed that there should be a united, independent and autonomous Poland, and that henceforth inviolable security of life, of worship and of industrial and social development should be guaranteed to all peoples who have lived hitherto under the power of governments devoted to a faith and purpose hostile to their own.

"I speak of this, not because of any desire to exalt an abstract political principle which has always been held very dear by those who have sought to build up liberty in America, but for the same reason that I have spoken of the other conditions of peace which seem to me clearly indispensable—because I wish frankly to uncover realities. Any peace which does not recognize and accept this principle will inevitably be upset. It will not rest upon the affections or the convictions of mankind. The ferment of spirit of whole populations will fight subtly and constantly against it, and all the world will sympathize. The world can be at peace only if its life is stable, and there can be no stability where the will is in rebellion, where there is not tranquility of spirit and a sense of justice, of freedom and of right.

"So far as practicable, moreover, every great people now struggling towards a full development of its resources and of its powers should be assured a direct outlet to the great highways of the sea. Where this cannot be done by the cession of territory, it can no doubt be done by the neutralization of direct rights of way under the general guarantee which will assure the peace itself. With a right comity of arrangement no nation need be shut away from free access to the open paths of the world's commerce.

"And the paths of the sea must alike in law and in fact be free. The freedom of the seas is the sine qua non of peace, equality, and co-operation. No doubt a somewhat radical reconsideration of many of the rules of international practice hitherto thought to be established may be necessary in order to make the seas indeed free and common in practically all circumstances for the use of mankind, but the motive for such changes is convincing and compelling. There can be no trust or intimacy between the peoples of the world without them. The free, constant, unthreatened intercourse of nations is an essential part of the process of peace and of development. It need not be difficult to define or to secure the fredom of the seas if the governments of the world sincerely desire to come to an agreemnt concerning it.

"It is a problem closely connected with the limitation of naval armaments and the co-operation of the navies of the world in keeping the seas at once free and safe. And the question of limiting naval armaments opens the wider and perhaps more difficult question of the limitation of armies and of all programs of military preparation. Difficult and delicate as these questions are, they must be faced with the utmost candour and decided in a spirit of real accommodation if peace is to come with healing in its wings and come to stay. Peace cannot be had without concession and sacrifice. There can be no sense of safety and equality among the nations if great preponderating armaments are henceforth to continue here and there to be built up and maintained. The statesmen of the world must plan for peace and nations must adjust and accommodate their policy to it as they have planned for war and made ready for pitiless contest and rivalry. The question of armaments, whether on land or sea is the most immediately and intensely practical question connected with the future fortunes of nations and of mankind.

"I have spoken upon these great matters without reserve and with the utmost explicitness because it has seemed to me to be necessary if the world's yearning desire for peace was anywhere to find free voice and utterance. Perhaps I am the only person in high authority amongst all the peoples of the world who is at liberty to speak and hold nothing back. I am speaking as an individual, and yet I am speaking also of course, as the responsible head of a great government and I feel confident that I have said what the people of the United States would wish me to say. May I not add that I hope and believe that I am in effect speaking for liberals and friends of humanity in every nation and of every program of liberty? I would fain believe that I am speaking for the silent mass of mankind everywhere who have as yet had no place or opportunity to speak their real hearts out concerning the death and ruin they see to have come already upon the persons and the homes they hold most dear.

"And in holding out the expectation that the people and government of the United States will join the other civilized nations of the world in guaranteeing the permanence of peace upon such terms as I have named I speak with the greater boldness and confidence because it is clear to every man who can think that there is in this promise no breach in either traditions or our policy as a nation but a fulfillment rather, of all that we have professed or striven for.

"I am proposing, as it were, that the nations should with one accord, adopt the doctrine of President Monroe as the doctrine of the world. That no nation should seek to extend its policy over any other nation or people, but that every people should be left free to determine its own policy, its own way of development, unhindered, unthreatened, unafraid, the little along with the great and powerful.

"I am proposing that all nations henceforth avoid entangling alliances which would draw them into competitions of power, catch them in a net of intrigue and selfish rivalry and disturb their own affairs with influences intruded from without. There is no entangling alliance in a concert of power. When all unite to act in the sense and with the same purpose all act in the common interest and are free to live their own lives under a common protection.

"I am proposing government by the consent of the governed; that freedom of the seas which in international conference after conference representatives of the United States have urged with the eloquence of those who are convinced disciples of liberty and that moderation of armaments which makes of armies and navies a power for order merely, not an instrument of aggression or of selfish violence.

"These are American principles, American policies. We could stand for no others. And they are also the principles and policies of forward looking men and women everywhere, of every modern nation, of every enlightened community. They are the principles of mankind and must prevail."

STORM WARNING BY WEATHER BUREAU

Gales Due This Afternoon—Blizzard Raging in Northwest is Worst in Twenty Years.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 22—The Weather Bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Northwest storm warning, 10 a. m., north and northeast, moving eastward. Winds shifting to the west. Strong gales this afternoon and tomorrow on the Middle Atlantic and New England coasts.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Five northern states—Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and part of Iowa—today were in the grip of the worst blizzard in twenty years. Heavy snow and high winds have caused great damage, according to reports trickling in here today, and in many cities traffic of all descriptions has been abandoned while the citizens dig themselves out.

In Chicago and vicinity wind, accompanied by snow that melted as it fell and during the night froze on the pavements, damaged property considerably.

Trains from the nothwest are all delayed and Milwaukee reports that none arrived yesterday except from Chicago. In that city street cars are being kept going only with the aid of scores of snow shovellers. Conditions in the other states affected virtually the same.

POLICE RAID SALOON SUNDAY

Banko's Place on Third Avenue Found Running Full Blast, With Crap Game in Rear Room—Case Held Open.

For some time past the police have received complaints regarding the saloon of Walter Banko at No. 89 Third avenue, and finally Chief Wood decided the best plan would be to raid the place. At midnight Saturday the chief, accompanied by Sergeant Hanley and Officers Fout and Connelly made a raid on the saloon. They claim that although it was nearly 1 o'clock Sunday morning the saloon was running full blast with Banko serving drinks to his customers, and a crap game running in the rear room.

The raid came as a sudden surprise and so secretly was it carried out that no one was tipped off Chief Wood placed Banko under arrest and the crap game was also stopped. The spoils of the raid from the crap game amounted to 60 cents, which Chief Wood seized.

Sunday morning Banko was released under bail and was arraigned before Recorder Lang this morning, and the case adjourned until Tuesday, January 30, bail being fixed at $1,000, which was furnished.

Two charges have been lodged against Banko by Chief Wood. One is keeping open during prohibited hours and the other allowing gambling in his saloon.

LESTER LEGG HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Overcome in Hot Water Tank He was Painting at Jacobson Plant—Rescued with Difficulty.

Lester Legg, a plumber employed by the Canfield Supply Company, had a narrow escape from death on Sunday morning at the Jacobson shirt factory on Cornell street. He and a helper were busy painting the interior of the large hot water tank in the laundry. Owing to the fact that the tank is used during the week it was necessary to do the work on Sunday.

The hot water tank it was found needed painting to overcome the rusty appearance of the water passing through it. It is a tank about ten feet long and about three or four feet high. Entrance is gained through a narrow hole. So close was the quarters inside the tank and the air so stifling that Legg and his helper worked in relays of a short period of time each.

While Legg was working the heat and fumes of the paint caused him to faint and in falling he became entangled in the coils inside of the tank. His helper hearing him fall glanced in and saw him laying on the bottom of the tank. He attempted to get Legg out but he was wedged in so tightly that it was impossible.

Other men at work in the building came to his assistance and for a considerable length of time worked to extricate Legg from the tank, but were unsuccessful. Fnally Antonio Marchio, a plumber employed by Canfield's managed to loose Legg and finally was able to drag him feet foremost from the tank.

In the meantime word was sent to Dr. Quinian who responded, but was held up for ten minutes by a freight train on the West Shore crossing. Finally when the doctor reached the plant he worked for some time before Legg was brought too, and later conveyed him to his home on Smith avenue, where he is resting as comfortably as can be expected.

The men who assisted in the rescue of Legg from the tank give Marchio great credit for it was only by exerting his great strength that he was able to free Legg and rescue him.

WALL STREET SCARED BY THE PRESIDENT

POLICE NOTIFIED THREE WERE DEAD

But When Scene Was Reached Not a Single Corpse Could be Found—Proved to be a Fist Fight.

Saturday evening while Dr. Snyder, the police surgeon, was busy dressing the wounds of Floyd Williams, a Rhinebeck drunk, whose troubles are told elsewhere, the telephone bell in police headquarters rang and Policeman Connelly, who answered the phone, was informed that three men were dead at the corner of Murray and Chambers street. In quick succession other calls came in over the wire fixing the dead at from one to three, but not a word as to the cause of death.

Policeman Shader and Dr. Snyder hurried to the scene in the doctor's automobile and later Policeman Connelly and the ambulance reached the battlefield. A hurried search disclosed not a single corpse.

The police later learned that Hale Klein, white, and William Mowers, a negro, both employed on Kelder's express service, had gotten into a fist fight, but neither were to be found.

The hurry up squad returned to police headquarters. No arrests were made.

As Wells Sees It.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 22.—Complete victory for either side in the war is impossible, says H. G. Wells, world famous novelist in the Daily News today. Writing under the head of "Idols for World Peace," Mr. Wells said that it is absolutely imperative that the Powers set up an international tribunal for the enforcement of peace on the principle of common welfare in international trades.

WOMEN'S WORK IN KINGSTON CLUBS

Eighty Women Present at Federation Gathering Hear Reports of Various Local Organizations and Listen to Interesting Addresses From Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Cameron.

Not in a long time has there been a gathering of Federation women of Kingston so notable for its delightful sociability and inspiring reports and addresses as was the luncheon and meeting of Saturday. There was just one regrettable feature, the illness of the president, Mrs C. K. Moulton, making it impossible for her to be present. On every hand one heard words of sincere regret over her absence. Mrs. Charles G. Ellis, first vice president, however, did the honors of the day very graciously. The entire affair on Saturday was in charge of the Lowell Club, Mrs. D. G. Atkins being chairman of the committee having the luncheon in charge.

At the appointed hour eighty of Kingston's representative women partook of the delicious luncheon served in the manner for which the Stuyvesant is far famed. At the guest table were seated the guests of honor, Mrs. William Grant Brown, president of the State Federation, and Mrs E. N. Cameron, director of the third judicial district, together with the officers of the Federation, and the presidents of the affiliated clubs. A handsome cluster of pink carnations formed the only table decorations. At each of the smaller tables were pretty little baskets of ferns. After the luncheon the entire body of women adjourned to the chapel of the First Dutch Church, where many more of the Federation women joined them, presenting a gratifying audience to the out of town women.

During the business meeting Mrs Ellis presided. Following the reading of the minutes of the last general meeting as given by Miss Schaeffer, the secretary, Mrs. Hyman Roosa, treasurer, gave her report, showing the sum of $38.44 to the credit of the Federation fund, and $25.55 to the credit of the public health fund. Mrs Grace V. B Gray, corresponding secretary, reported the receipt of a communication from the Consumers' League, and a letter written to the Parent-Teachers' Association requesting their co-operation in the coming Child Welfare Exhibit, also a letter of thanks and appreciation sent to Mrs. Cordts, for the use of a vacant store in which to hold the exhibit.

Accept C. of C. Invitation.

Mrs. Gray then read the invitation from the Chamber of Commerce, requesting the Federation women to attend the dinner at the Eagle Hotel on Wednesday evening, to assist in making welcome the out of town women then to be present, and also to meet at the Y M. C. A. later in the evening to hear the address given by A. B. Ross of Pennsylvania, who will tell of his successful mode of bringing the farmer and his produce to the consumer with best results to both. Later in the meeting, the sentiment was strongly expressed that it would be well for every Federation woman to attend both the dinner and address, and it was voted that at least representatives of every club and committee and of the Federation be present.

Sunshine Society's Work.

The first report of actual work to be given was that of the Sunshine Society, Mrs. W. Scott Gillespie, president, who told of the hundred and thirty members (not all active, however), grouped into investigating, visiting, entertainment and clothing committees, with a special collector of dues. Milk, money toward rents, and a great amount of clothing, including bedding are provided the needy old people, widows and widows with children, whom the Sunshine Society helps. At Thanksgiving time fruit and candy were given to the patients at the Tuberculosis Hospital. With the fifty-six dollars especially contributed, well-filled baskets were given to a number of poor families at Christmas, and for all these gifts, many letters of gratitude were received. Last week the society received the generous sum of $50 from a philanthropic man, who asked that it be used where it would do the most good. The report closed with thanks to the people of Kingston for their support of this work, calling attention to the fact that never does an appeal for aid find its way into the newspapers, that it is not immediately answered.

Review of Film World.

Miss Helena Clearwater, chairman of the Theatre Approval Committee, gave the next report, which called forth much favorable comment from the visiting Federation women, and also called out not a little discussion. The report was practically as follows: There are five women on the Theatre Approval Committee, who visit the five picture houses in this city and report to the chairman of the committee their approval or disapproval of what is being shown on the screen. If a picture is censored, the chairman takes up the matter with the manager of the respective theatre. No public report is made, as an adverse criticism is usually a fine advertisement for the picture, people going to see why it is censored.

Pictures Clean As Rule.

The theatre managers have issued passes to the committee which may be used at any performance, and the committee has received the most courteous treatment from the managers of all our theatres. At the opera house and Orpheum several of the large New York productions have

GERMAN RAIDER REPORTED SUNK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 22.—A German commerce raider believed to be the ship which wrought such havoc among British shipping, has been sunk in the Atlantic 130 miles off Para, according to an unconfirmed report circulated here today.

The raider is said to have been sunk by the British cruiser Glasgow which was recently in port at Pernambuco. The report of the destruction of the raider came from Pernambuco.

It had previously been reported that a mysterious ship, believed by many to be the German commerce destroyer, had been seen off the Brazilian coast, near Para, speeding through the Atlantic under a feull head of steam.

The British auxiliary cruiser Edinboro Castle, which has joined the hunt for the German, arrived at this port on Sunday.

A despatch from Pernambuco says that there has been great activity on board the Cap Roca and other German vessels in that harbor. Stores of coal, provisions and war materials were taken on board. This has aroused a belief that the ships, or some of them, may try to escape to supply the German commerce destroyer.

The Brazilian government has ordered the coast defense ship Deodora and the scout cruiser Rio Grande do Sul into northern Brazilian waters to protect the country's neutrality. They will steam tonight or tomorrow.

The ministry of marine has received a telegram from Pernambuco reaffirming the report that two German raiders were seen at sea accompanied by two tenders and that all four flew the United States flag. This information came originally from the master of the Brazilian merchant ship Maranhaa.

The newspaper A Noticia prints a sensational story that about 100 German sailors from the interned gunboat Eber, at Bahia, embarked on the Swedish steamship St. Croix and were transferredto a German raider at sea. The St. Croix left this port five days ago. These sailors had been interned at the Brazilian naval station at Cebras Island, in the Bay of Rio Janeiro, for more than a year.

DIVORCES FOR ULSTER FOLK.

Elizabeth Deyo Wins Decree as Does Harry B. Terwilliger.

Elizabeth Deyo, who appeared in court accompanied by her pretty eleven-year-old daughter Pearl, was granted an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce from Frank Deyo, by Justice Hirschberg in special term of Supreme Court at Newburgh Saturday. This is the concluding chapter in a story that has kept the tongues of Walden gossips wagging for months. The Deyos were married in Shawangunk, Ulster county, by the Rev. Sheldon Vanderberg, August 7, 1904. They moved to Walden. Deyo was a butcher by trade, but later he purchased an automobile, with which he did a general hacking business. He and his wife separated because of his alleged drunkenness and other bad habits, and last year she brought a suit for absolute divorce, alleging that on April 27, 1911, he had been guilty of misconduct with Maggie Daley in Newburgh, that on other occasions he misbehaved with one Ellen Cross in Montgomery and Coldenham, and that from November 14 to November 19, 1916, he consorted with a woman from New York, whose identity is unknown, in his home on Oak street, Walden. Deyo put in no appearance at the tria.

Divorce For Terwilliger.

The court also granted an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce in the undefended suit of Harry Bond Terwilliger of Walden, formerly of Rifton, Ulster county, against Lucy Ellen Terwilliger, which was partly tried on Friday, when George E. Tronscott, 35 years old, superintendent of the industrial department of the Salvation Army in Worcester, Mass., testified that two years ago he met the defendant, who represented herself as a divorcee. He gave her a $400 diamond ring and wearing apparel, advanced $400 to her mother, and finally went to live with the defendant. Terwilliger appeared after a while and brought the action for divorce. The Terwilligers were married March 11, 1909, in Walden.

Crawford to Plead Guilty?

According to the Newburgh newspapers, it is likely that Samuel Oakley Crawford, alias the Rev. Arthur Worthington, indicted for swindling the Rev. Dr. Frederick J. Stanley of New Windsor, will plead guilty to the charge in order to save prosecution of a host of other charges for bigamy and fraud. Crawford will be brought to Newburgh Tuesday from Hampton, Va., where he was arrested at Soldiers' Home.

Burns Brothers' Ice Harvest

Burns Brothers have completed harvesting at the Diamond and McNamee house on Rondout creek. One of the houses contains 6,283 tons. In Catskill the company has cut a small quantity of ice in the creek fronting the Smith house and a little patch at Johnson & Palmer's. Most of the creek ice up stream was spoiled by last Sunday's rainstorm.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well I see that members of the police force have been furnished with copies of the amended traffic ordinance adopted last year by the common council," said the friend to the street corner politician.

"Is that so?" replied the politician.

"Yep, and I understand they are going to enforce the provision too," replied the friend.

"What's the use of passing ordinances unless they are to be enforced?" retorted the politician.

"Have you read over the new provisions," asked the friend.

"Yes at the time they were published in The Freeman," said the the politician.

"Do you remember the main features of the changes" asked the friend.

"Sure," rejoined the politician, "for one thing it forbid the use of glaring headlights on the city street."

"They are still doing it though," said the friend.

"Doing what?" asked the politician.

"Using the glaring headlight," replied the friend.

"You are right there," replied the politician, "but after an arrest or so is made it will likely be stopped for the time being."

"Another good thing," replied the politician, "is the forbidding of a vehicle being left standing within ten feet of a fire hydrant."

"That sounds all right," said the friend.

"It is a good thing," replied the politician. "I have known of firemen responding to an alarm of fire finding the passage to a fire hydrant blocked by a vehicle."

"Any other changes," asked the friend as the politician paused.

"Yes, several," replied the politician, "but I don't just think of them now. Anyway it's up to a driver of any vehicle to get a copy of the new city ordinance regulating traffic and studying it."

"Why," asked the friend.

"So he will avoid being picked up by the police," said the politician.

"But suppose he don't know he was violating the law," queried the friend.

"Ignorance of the law is no excuse," quoted the politician with a smile.

Following a pause the friend asked "Has the mayor appointed any one a member of the board of public works to fill the vacancy?"

"Not that I know of" replied the politician, adding with a chuckle, "I don't think he has fully decided what man he shall take from one of the other city boards to place on the public works board."

"How would you like to be a member of the board of public works," asked the friend.

"Can't say I would care much for the job," replied the politician, thoughtfully.

"Well it gives a man some prestige," argued the friend.

"Yes," agreed the politician, "and it might give a man a chance to get some streets in his own vicinity fixed up that have never had much work done to them in years."

"Now you are taking a selfish view of the office," said the friend.

"No I am not," rejoined the politician.

"Then you don't think the whole city should be considered when repairs are made," queried the friend.

"Yes I do," replied the politician, "My theory is that a certain amount of street improvement work should be planned each year."

"Now you are stealing some of the mayor's thunder," commented the friend with a laugh, "you know he has been speaking of that very thing."

"Well I did not know it," replied the politician, "but I heartily say so to it."

"It's a wonder the board would not have the city hall cleaned though," said the friend.

"Yes that would be a good idea," agreed the politician.

"I understand the mayor mentioned that in his message the first of the year," said the friend.

"Did he," said the politician, well anyway I did not notice whether an appropriation had been made for having it done or not."

"Do you think it will be cleaned this year," asked the friend.

"Not by the board of public works" replied the politician.

"Why not," asked the friend

"It's not up to the board as they have no control over the city hall," replied the politician.

"What do you mean," queried the friend.

"The city fathers have full charge of the building, and it's up to them to have it cleaned," explained the politician.

"Well anyway it would not hurt the building to clean it," said the friend.

"You said something then," commented the politician.

FARM BUREAU PLANS.

Membership Campaign to be Carried on With Vigor.

The Ulster County Farm Bureau Association is about to launch one of the most intensive and far reaching membership campaigns among the agricultural people that has ever been attempted or thought of. With the help of the State Leader of Farm Bureaus, the County has been divided into 70 communities. For each one of these communities there is now appointed or will be appointed from one to five men who are local leaders in agricultural and rural life. These men will be called together in the community for a conference with the Farm Bureau manager to discuss the communities' needs. A map of their community will be displayed and the territory will be divided up among the committeemen so that each committeeman will have a definite road or roads to cover. Each committeeman can appoint from one to three Bureau members to assist him.

The Committeemen will be supplied with cards and from every person he visits who does not join the Bureau, he will secure the following information: Name and address, number of tillable acres, and kinds of farming in which interested. Reason for not joining the Farm Bureau Association which is organized for his own good, whose operations he can direct through his executive committee which is the biggest, broadest movement for the betterment of agriculture, and which has the sanction, support and direction of the United States Department of Agriculture, the State Department of Agriculture, and the State College of Agriculture.

When this campaign is completed it is expected that almost without exception every farmer in the county, and citizen interested in agriculture, (1) will have been approached and given an opportunity to become a member; (2) will have been educated in regard to what the Farm Bureau is and what it is trying to do; (3) will have supplied his name and address and the lines of agriculture in which he is interested to the Bureau, so that it can give him whatever assistance it has along his line; (4) will have voiced his objections to the Bureau so that these may be explained away, if they are erroneous, or so that some action can be taken toward their correction if they are real objections and should be removed.

We expect to enlist enough workers so that the burden will not fall heavily on any one individual. We expect that if each worker gives 4 hours a week to this special Farm Bureau work for 4 weeks that his portion of the task will have been completed.

This plan when carried through will be of immense value in making Ulster County one of the most prosperous and foremost counties in agriculture in the State. When you are called upon to give a little of your time and effort for the general good of your community, of your town, and of your county, we trust that you will respond with a whole heartiness and co-operation which will be bound to bring us success.—The Spokesman.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

In journeys as in life, it is a great deal easier to go down hill than up.

Some people are always grumbling because roses have thorns. Why not be glad that thorns have roses?

HELPFUL HINTS.

When putting down matting if it must be turned in at the sides of the room, wet it with salt and water until thoroughly damp, then it can be turned smoothly, will give a much neater finish and not break.

When crocheting run a hat pin through the ball and stick it on a sofa cushion, then it will never roll away or get soiled.

An ordinary match slightly moistened and rubbed over ink spots on the fingers will remove them quickly.

By stitching around the top of a new stocking with a fine stitch using silk thread, one may avoid the dropped stitches which are so annoying. Washing silk hose after each wearing will double the life of the hose.

To make cottage cheese quickly, pour boiling water into a bowl of clabbered milk, then let it drain in a sieve. Season with salt, butter and cream.

An embroidered front of an old shirtwaist will make a dainty little apron. Cut it out carefully, cut out the top for the band and shape the bottom as desired.

Most cooks find trouble in keeping cheese moist without molding. Place it in a crock, sprinkle it well with salt and it will keep for some time without molding.

A handful of salt thrown into the rinsing water will keep the clothes from freezing on cold days while they are being hung. Put the clothes pins into a dripping pan and heat them hot before going out and comfort will attend you.

Crude oil is one of the best of hair tonics but one which is not pleasant to apply. Give it a good trial, then wash the hair.

Sour Beef.—This is a good way to use a tough piece of beef which resists ordinary cooking: Brown the meat in a little fat, add flour, then pour on a pint of water or stock, add two onions, salt, pepper, worcestershire sauce and a tablespoonful of vinegar. Cook slowly until the meat is tender. Use a tablespoonful of vinegar to two pounds of meat, adding more if it is not very strong.

AGRICULTURE AT TOP OF ITS LIST

Chamber of Commerce and Farm Bureau Co-operate in Securing Secretary Ross for Lecture at Y. M. C. A. Rooms—Speaker Has a Record.

One of the most practical agricultural experts of the country is to be in Kingston on Wednesday, January 24th, under the joint auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and the Ulster County Farm Bureau. He will be in town all day and in the evening is to deliver a free lecture at the Y. M. C. A. building. Every farmer in the county is invited to attend, and to bring with him his wife, his hired man, his neighbors, and everybody he wants.

Herbert Carl, the well known milliner of North Front street, is to be chairman of the Agricultural Committee. Mr. Carl is in Florida just at present, so his place as chairman is taken temporarily by W. C.Kingman of the Canfield Supply Company. Other members of the committee are Dr. C. O. Sahler, Myron S. Teller and W. H. Hook, manager of the Farm Bureau. These gentlemen are strongly impressed with the necessity of co-operation between the business of the city and the country, for their mutual advantage. They have learned something of the work in this line that has been done in other communities, and see no reason why Kingston and Ulster county cannot do at least as well as others no better situated.

Mr. Ross is one of the men who has done the most successful work in this direction. He served with the Agricultural Department of the federal government for some years, fostering just this sort of thing. Then the Chamber of Commerce at Huntingdon, Pa., wanted a secretary and wanted especially a man who knew what to do to bring back the lost farming industry of "the blue Juniata," and so they got Ross. At Huntingdon Mr. Ross has not only gone out into the country and helped the farmer increase production at lower cost; but he has gone out into his town and shown the business men there that it was up to him to assist in providing ways and means for the farmer to get rid of that increased supply of foodstuffs, instead of letting them rot on the ground.

So Huntingdon has a co-operative warehouse where the farmer can haul his produce and get spot cash for it at the market prices of the day It is graded, packed and marketed by trained men and women. Unsold surplus is taken next door every afternoon and canned, so that it can be sold in that form at a later time when the market wants it that way. That is the scheme which Mr Ross will explain to his hearers on Wednesday evening.

Throughout the day, morning and afternoon, Mr. Ross will be ready to meet any individual or groups who may want to talk with him more in detail than he can in the evening lecture. The committee in charge is going to take dinner with him at the Eagle Hotel at half past six in the evening, and invites any one who wishes to do so to join them at dinner and meet Mr. Ross. There will be an opportunity there to talk with him, ask questions, etc.

Altogether, it promises to be a day well worth while to the farmers, both men and women of Ulster county, and scores of them ought to be on hand.

FOR THE SICK CHILD.

Toys That Will Amuse Without Exciting Your Patient.

It is difficult to keep the sick child entertained. Especially when convalescence starts in the task is a trial to nurse or mother, for the child that is ill dislikes to stay in bed unless it is too ill to care about anything.

A supply of toys is, of course, a great aid in making the hours of convalescence pleasant to children. Many gifts of toys were solicited and received by the hospitals in the cities where infantile paralysis made such big inroads last summer, for the hospital authorities realized that convalescence passes much more pleasantly and perhaps more quickly to the child that is happily engaged with toys.

If you are buying toys for a child that is ill remember first that they must be simple. Nothing complicated or too exciting must be chosen, for excitement is bad for anybody who is not in the best of health.

For the little girl well along in convalescence, the girl of six or over, paper dolls are a delight. Hours can be passed in cutting them out and other hours in playing with them.

Beauty Hints.

Those who fear that the use of cold cream or skin food will induce a growth of surplus hair can substitute warm milk. This should be applied in exactly the same manner as the cream

If you value complexion never use hard water with which to wash. Hard water contains mineral salts such as lime, which when combined with the fatty acids of the soap form what is known as stearate of lime. This clogs up the pores and makes them large and open and coarsens the skin. Should rainwater not be available soften the hard water with borax or oatmeal.

If you are bent on trying to have a beautiful mouth do not fall into the error of assuming a continuous grin. Muscles that are always kept on the stretch finally lose their original contour, and wrinkles result.

The New Sweaters.

Angora wool knitted sweaters, whether coat shape or middy blouse contour, are very ample in the skirt part. They often, too, are held into the figure, at the waist, by apron string straps of the same materials, which are wound about several times. Two colors are used in the same sweater, the border on hem, collar and cuffs contrasting with the sweater color, as a garnet sweater with a three inch yellow border.

The silk sweaters follow the same lines, especially as to flaring skirt portions, and, if middy blouse shapes, have string straps to tie about the neck under the collar.

For Short Stemmed Flowers.

Fill a shallow dish or bowl half full of water. Throw in eight or ten common bottle corks. Arrange the flowers among the corks, which will be hidden entirely by the leaves and petals of the flowers and at the same time hold the flowers and leaves about the water in a most satisfactory manner This suggestion is especially useful for violets, pansies and other short stemmed flowers

Difficulty is only a word indicating the degree of strength requisite for accomplishing a particular object.

A STOLEN GEM

By ALAN HINSDALE

When Edward Worthington millionaire and globe trotter, was in India he bought a large ruby, not knowing its value

When Worthington reached London he submitted his purchase to a precious stone expert, and the report was surprising "It is a pigeon blood red ruby almost perfect in color and transparency and worth anywhere from a hundred to a hundred and fifty thousand dollars"

It was evident from this that the ruby had been stolen, and Worthington would have liked to return it to its owner; but, in the first place, he did not know who was the owner, and, in the second, he was obliged to sail without delay for America.

On the steamer coming over he carried his ruby on his person by day, pinning it in his inner vest pocket, folding the vest carefully and putting it under his pillow at night. One afternoon, having spent the day on deck, he went to his stateroom, and, having put his key in the lock and taken it out, he noticed a bit of something white on it. Examining it thoroughly, he found the substance to be wax.

Worthington pondered long as to his discovery, for he suspected at once that some one was in possession of the secret of his having the ruby. He had told no one of his purchase, and no one had seen it except the London gem expert. How, then, could any one know that it was in his possession?

He did not care to part with the jewel by having it stolen from him. The price he had paid for it, the fact that he had unwittingly bought a stolen property and that he was desirous of returning it to its owner constrained him to be on his guard with it. It occurred to him to turn it over for safe keeping to the purser of the ship, but that officer would ask him its value, and he did not wish to impart this to any one. Fearing that if he kept it on his person he would be murdered for its possession, he concluded to hide it.

Going to the ship's carpenter, he borrowed a few tools and, returning to his stateroom, took up a board in the floor, placed the ruby, wrapped in cotton, in the cavity and replaced the board Returning the tools, he borrowed some varnish and revarnished the disturbed place. While doing this work he made sure that no one was in any of the adjoining staterooms.

Having thus put the gem where he was sure it would be safe, he felt easier though he was careful not to go to lonely parts of the ship and barricaded his stateroom door at night, for he thought one who was after the ruby might think it was kept on his person.

At the end of the voyage while the ship was being docked Worthington removed the board under which he had placed his gem and was thunderstruck to see the place empty

He was more discomfited at not being able to return it to its owner than at the loss of the price he had paid for it. But what engaged his whole attention was how could the thief have known where he had hidden it.

The thought of calling for a search of all on board, but abandoned the idea as futile. There seemed nothing to do but pocket the loss and think no more about it.

The morning after Worthington's arrival at his home in New York he was told that a visitor wished to see him The person proved to be of dark color and a cast of features common in India. He was well dressed and appeared to be an upper caste Advancing to Worthington, he handed him a check for $10,000

"Mr Worthington" he said, "a ruby was recently stolen from the rajah of Ringpure, in India, by one of his servants and sold to you for the amount of this check. The thief was arrested, confessed and told what he had done with the gem, which is one of the rarest in the world. His highness the rajah directed me to follow you and recover the gem I did as he commanded and have it in my possession"

"But why" asked Worthington, "did you not tell me that the ruby had been stolen and ask me to return it?"

"Firstly, I could only ask you to return it; I could not compel you Secondly, I did not know whether you would surrender it or what terms you would make."

"But you would have had the law," said Worthington

"Yes, but you western people have a saying, 'Possession is nine points in the law' We Indians have something much better than the law We are adepts in secret methods"

"I shall certainly not dispute that," said Worthington. "Now that the matter is finished I wish you would tell me why you think it necessary to return me the price I paid for the gem"

"His highness has many English and American friends and does not wish to do an injustice."

"Lastly, will you tell me how you recovered the ruby?"

"I came over in the same ship with you. I took an impression with wax of your lock from which I made a key. Soon after you left your room, where you had hidden the jewel I entered it. I smelled varnish I knew at once what that meant. It was but a few minutes before I found a freshly varnished board, To remove it was very easy You western people in such matters are as children in the hands of us orientals."

He Wanted the Job.

To the colored man who made application for work he listened and awaited the finish of the tale of the applicant's qualifications for the job then stalled in this manner "Well, I'd like to give you the place, but I'm afraid I can't, for you tell me you are married. I have special reasons for wanting to give this position to a single man." "Why, boss," exclaimed the willing worker, "if dat's de only trouble Ah kin git a divohce between now an' when you sets ready foh me to start in!"—Argonaut.

A Word For an Abused Man.

Is it not time father had a square deal?

Years ago—not so many—our children spoke to and of us as "papa" and "mamma," as case and gender might be Now we have dignified "mamma" into "mother," but poor "papa" is robbed of even that small dignity. He's just "daddy"—Life.

Poor John!

"Hello! Is this you mother dear?"

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN 22, 1917.

Announcement by the General Education Board that it will give its support to an experiment in the education of youth, which, if successful, will mean practically the modernization of our elementary and secondary schools is not only interesting but far from unwelcome to friends of these institutions. As might have been expected, the usual chorus of criticism has been raised, especially against laying stress upon the modern languages to the exclusion of Latin and Greek. As for the latter, the inconsistency in the teaching of these languages dates back to times long before our present school system. Benjamin Franklin found fault with the notion of its being the proper thing to learn Latin first to make it easier to learn the modern languages derived therefrom. He commented on the fact that we do not begin with Greek in order more easily to acquire the Latin, saying: "It is true that, if you can clamber and get to the top of a staircase without using the steps, you will the more easily gain them in descending; but certainly, if you begin with the lowest you will with more ease ascend to the top; and I would therefore offer it to the consideration of those who superintend the education of our youth; whether, since many of those who begin with the Latin quit the same after spending some years without having made any great proficiency, and what they have learnt becomes almost useless, so that their time has been lost, it would not have been better to begin with the French, proceeding to the Italian, et cetera; for tho', after spending the same time, they should quit the study of languages and never arrive at the Latin, they would, however, have acquired another tongue or two, that being in modern use, might be serviceable to them in common life." That is the substance of the new idea in education—service. The New York Times condemns the plan at the outset and fails to note that, after all, it is only an experiment. Among persons [illegible] results of the present system of education no better adapted to the needs of common life" than the curriculum now in use is essentially sound. The theories to be worked out in this educational experiment are in every way deserving of a thorough test. It is conservatism run wild to assert that there is not room for a tremendous improvement in the manner of teaching and the choice of subjects as now offered in our elementary and secondary schools.

This is the season of the year when la grippe gets in some of its most effective work and pneumonia gains its highest percentage of fatal attacks. There are a number of reasons for this condition. The vitality of the body is low and resistance to contagion is not so strong. The lack of ventilation in home and in office or work-room, the even worse evil of coming into close contact with persons suffering from colds or incipient cases of la grippe also figure as responsible agents in epidemics of this kind such as are now prevailing in many cities. People as a rule dress too warmly, keep too much out of the fresh air and are careless of their personal welfare. With all of the knowledge that has been disseminated about germs, the average individual still takes a chance on passing an evening with a friend suffering from a severe cold or risking his health and even life by exposure to the elements when improperly clothed. Wearing lighter weights of underwear and the removal of one's overcoat upon entering a place where the temperature is many degrees above that of the air outside are two useful practices which have had a most beneficial effect upon the health of thousands of people. We know of some persons who always used to believe it necessary to catch a cold during the winter season but they have learned better. Preventive measures are never silly. The parents who think it a good thing for their children "to have the whooping cough and get it over with" are fewer in number these days. Observance of a few simple rules of health, care in selection of clothing and avoiding sufferers from colds are wise measures that carry many people through the winter without a break in the enjoyment of good health.

CENSUS REPORT ON STATE INDUSTRIES

Interesting figures as to the leading industries in New York state are shown by a table not yet published in printed form but recently received by the State Industrial Commission from the Federal Census Bureau. This table gives the results of the last census of manufactures for 1914. It shows that, measured by value of products, the manufacture of women's clothing led all other industries by nearly ninety millions, the value of its product in 1914 having been $345,316,090. Printing and publishing came next with a product valued at $267,269,000. Nearly equal to printing and publishing was men's clothing with a product of the value of $238,627,000. For women's and men's clothing combined the total value of product was $583,943,000 and this was over one-seventh of the value of products for all industries in the state, the latter being $3,814,661,000.

Three other industries had a total value of product of over a hundred millions. These were foundry and machine shop products ($173,430,000), slaughtering and meat packing ($148,106,000), and bread and other bakery products ($109,220,000).

Four industries had a product value between seventy-five and a hundred million dollars. These in descending order were tobacco manufactures, malt liquors, hosiery and knit goods, and flour and grist mill products. Following these were six with products of between fifty and seventy-five millions in value, namely, electrical machinery and supplies, millinery and lace goods, boots and shoes, lumber and timber, paper and wood pulp and gas. Twenty-one industries produced goods valued at from twenty-five to fifty millions, these being in descending order furniture and refrigerators, men's furnishing goods, copper, tin and sheet iron products, butter, cheese and condensed milk, chemicals, automobiles, patent medicines and druggists's preparations, leather, photographic apparatus and materials, confectionery, musical instruments, food preparations, iron and steel, paint and varnish, coffee and spice roasting and grinding, cars and general shop construction and repairs by steam railroad companies, fur goods, silk goods, soap, carpet and rugs and canning and preserving.

Figures as to average number of wage earners employed indicate what industries afford livelihood to the largest numbers of the state's population, the order of industries here not always being the same as for value of products. Women's clothing again heads the list with 108,393 wage earners, or over ten per cent of the total for all industries (1,057,867). Then follow men's clothing with 81,370, foundry 52,690 and printing and publishing showed half as many employes as any of the foregoing except hosiery and knit goods with 40,095. Others employing 10,000 of over were as follows: Tobacco manufactures, 30,489; boots and shoes, 27,561; bread and other bakery products, 27,002; millinery and lace goods, 26,124; electrical machinery and supplies, 23,758; furniture and refrigerators, 22,153; lumber and timber products, 21,508; cars and general shop construction and repairs by steam railroad companies, 20,234; men's furnishing goods, 17,495; copper, tin and sheet iron products, 16,049; fancy and paper boxes, 14,192; paper and wood pulp, 13,570; musical instruments, 12,902; carpets and rugs, 12,540; automobiles, 12,132; silk goods, 11,659; iron and steel, 10,788; confectionery, 10,768; gas, 10,090.

Folly in Grieving.

One class of feelings can be extinguished only by the creation of another; one sentiment banished only by inviting the antagonism of another; one interest supplanted only by the stronger occupancy of another. So long as this is unperceived the over-grieving heart will seek in vain to discipline itself. Thinking of its sorrow as too much, instead of its sense of duty as too little, it fails to meet pointedly its own remedy.—James Martineau.

AUTO INSPECTORS DOING GOOD WORK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 22.—That the work done by the state automobile inspectors the past year has netted thousands of dollars and served to bring hundreds of violators of the motor vehicle law to time, is shown in the annual report just filed by the inspectors with Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, under whose direction they are employed. In the metropolitan district alone four inspectors between March and November brought results totaling $38,550 in money and on the other hand brought consequences that only the knowledge that an alert man is on the job watching for violators of the law can do.

New Jersey motorists who came into New York state in excess of the fifteen times permitted under the existing reciprocity act before a license from this state is required, contributed $30,976 after being detected at the various ferries. John J. Curran, chief of the inspectors, through has activities in and around New York, brought direct financial returns of $20,591, of which $16,512 came from owners of New Jersey vehicles.

While the two inspectors working out of the Albany branch of the one from the Buffalo office of the secretary of state, found less violations than in New York, their efforts nevertheless forced 1,078 persons to register their cars. There were fined 67 persons and the amount in fees collected totalled $4,216.

The greater share of violations of the motor vehicle law come as the result of persons using dealers' plates on pleasure cars, the use of self-manufactured plates or using one plate on a machine and its mate on another while many unscrupulous persons do not hesitate to drive for hire without securing a chauffeur's license and paying the required fee. Running commercial vehicle for pleasure on Sundays and holidays is also a quite a common practice.

Some clever examples of attempted evasion of the motor vehicle law can be found in Secretary Hugo's office. They include a 1915 license plate with the old numerals painted over and those of 1916 substituted in a way that would escape detection a foot distant. Paper plates of exactly the color and size of the regulation ones have been secured and confiscated during the past year through the sharp eyes of the inspectors.

BOOZE AND DANCES AND NAKED WOMEN

Evangelist Peacock Hurls Hot Shot Sunday at Tabernacle—Fourth Week of Campaign Opens With 844 People Having Consecrated Themselves to God.

"You go and you let your children go to see naked women in picture shows. Suppose I asked the choir here to appear on the platform dressed like Adam and Eve were dressed in the Garden of Eden, how would you like it?" Evangelist L. K. Peacock hurled at his hearers Sunday evening in the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle and as the audience gasped he continued: "Then if it is not proper in a religious service it is not proper in a picture show or anywhere else."

Sunday opened the fourth week of Kingston's first tabernacle campaign, and every indication points to it being one of the most successful revivals ever held. So far during the campaign 844 men and women, young and old, have come forward at the close of the services and consecrated themselves to God. At all three services on Sunday the attendance was large. There are services of no kind held today in the tabernacle, but services will be resumed on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the evangelist will speak, and in the evening at 7:30 when he will talk on "Prisoners of Hope." Everyone is welcome to the meetings.

Mothers' Day.

Sunday morning Mothers' Day was observed and every one attending the service wore a white flower or a white ribbon in honor of their mother. Evangelist Peacock preached a special sermon on mothers. This sermon has been in such demand in other places that it was printed in booklet form and any one desiring a copy may secure it at the tabernacle Tuesday.

Godly Mothers Needed.

The evangelist took his text from Exodus 20:12: "Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." He said that our mothers have done more for us than any one else in the world and that if we refused to show our parents honor and respect we were violating God's commandment. He said what America needs today is godly mothers.

Hot Shot for Liquor Bunch.

At the afternoon service the tabernacle was filled with men gathered to hear the evangelist speak on "Booze, or Hot Shot for the Liquor Bunch," and they heard the evangelist handle the question without gloves and wade into what he called the direst, lowest and most contemptible business this side of hell, the liquor business. He said it was the greatest curse in the country today. Practically every crime committed can be traced back to the liquor business and at last public sentiment is getting aroused to the fact that the booze question is a menace that must be wiped out.

In 1920.

He predicted that in 1920 some political party is going to surge to the front and in that year the president of the United States would be elected by the temperance people.

Lighten Our Taxes?

Why some people say we must have the liquor business to lighten our taxes and keep the country going. You can put the man down who says that's a liar.

A saloon helps a town? You just look at the dirty hell holes and see your sons and daughters, some of them not 16 years old yet, come staggering out and if saloons are not a black spot on your city—well, I'll eat my hat, he added.

Are Disfranchised.

If a man is a drunkard, who suffers? If a man spends his money in saloon who suffers?

You men in Kingston, do you know that you are disfranchised citizens and that you have no more to say regarding the saloon whether it shall be in Kingston or not than a jack rabbit. Your legislature has seen to that. In New York as well as one or two other states the liquor bunch has deprived you of the right to vote on the saloon question.

Touched Up Education Board.

The evangelist in speaking of the fact that the education board had turned down a request that he be allowed to address the pupils of the high school said: "Because I am a preacher and a minister of the gospel I can't talk to the young folks as it might take their minds from their studies, but they can be allowed to put on a dirty low dance at the school and they can be allowed to go to a picture show and see a woman without clothes enough on to make a tail for a kite, but because I am decent I am not allowed to speak to them in school. If I was a low down degenerate I would be given all the privileges of the city and entertained in some of the best homes.

Heartily Applauded.

Throughout the evangelist's address he was heartily applauded and especially when he jabbed the education board, when the applause was terrific.

Save Boys.

The evangelist closed his stirring address with having a half a dozen young boys under 15 years step forward on the platform and then turning to the audience he asked them if they desired to see the boys fill a drunkard's grave? Mayhaps you have no boy of your own you say, then how about your neighbor's boy or girl?

Evening Service.

At the evening service the evangelist spoke from Romans 10-1, "Brethren my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved." Paul was interested in his own kinsmen, the Jews. He realized the course they were pursuing would lead to destruction. His interest was strong enough for him to go to God in their behalf. When people are interested in anything they manifest it by their words and actions.

We can tell when people are interested in spiritual things. In the church and in evangelistic movements, for when they are interested they talk to their friends and use every effort to bring them nearer to God.

When we are interested in the salvation of our friends and neighbors we will use every effort to bring them out of the darkness into the glorious light of the gospel.

Any One Can Do It.

This is a work that any one can do. You don't have to be a college graduate or trained for the work. If you have found Jesus yourself. If you have had an experience with God you can go out and tell others about Christ, and by your prayers you can turn people from their ungodly ways.

Kicked Into Hell.

He said his earnest prayer was that every saloon in Kingston and throughout the world might be kicked into hell where it belonged.

Sinners Not Happy.

Men and women steel their hearts against God and refuse to do what He wants them to do. Friends any one who shuts God out is a sinner and they are unhappy and dissatisfied with life, because no one who is a sinner is happy.

Who Sold First Drink?

Tomorrow you are going to place on trial a man who shot his neighbor after shooting up a household, and if I understand it correctly he was drunk while doing it. Who sold him the first drink? He is just as guilty in a way as the man who is now on trial for murder.

Do It Yourself.

If you wan't your children to honor God why don't you honor Him yourself. The world has the right to call you a hypocrite if you are not on the square with God.

844 Hit Trail.

So far during the campaign 844 men and women, young and old, have come forward and consecrated themselves to God. Friday evening's service closed with 502, and on Saturday 139 came forward, and on Sunday 46 came forward at the morning service, 74 at the men's meeting, and 12 at the women's meeting, and at night 71 came forward bring the total number to date 844. Many of these are church members who have reconsecrated themselves, many are backsliders, who have drifted away from church, and some are those who have never attended church.

Music a Feature.

At the afternoon service on Sunday a feature was the singing of "The Brewer's Big Horses Can't Run Over Me," sung with great success by Rodeheaver at the Billy Sunday meetings. This was sung Sunday by Mr. Warth and the men's chorus sang the chorus and automobile horns, whistles and bells helped to swell the volumn. The song and chorus brought down the house and Mr. Warth responded by singing another verse. By special request Mr. Warth and the men's chorus repeated the song at the evening service. Mr. Warth's solo singing at the services is a big feature. Sunday evening he sang, "The Ninety and Nine." The work of Mr. Campbell, the pianist is also exceptionally good, and both men are well trained musicians and work together in perfect harmony.

For Women Only.

The meeting at the Tabernacle Wednesday evening will be for women only. This includes high school girls and business and professional girls and every girl and woman in the city and vicinity is urged to attend.

BIG BRITISH CRUISER ESSEX LEADS CHASE FOR SEA RAIDER.

(H. M. S. Essex).

It is believed that at least fifteen British and French warships and at least one Japanese cruiser are engaging in the search of the South Atlantic for the German sea raider which has paralyzed South Atlantic shipping and caused a panic in marine circles. In the lead of this formidable fleet is the big British cruiser Essex, one of the largest of the Allied war vessels in American waters. Other warships known to be in the chase are the Glasgow, Suffolk, Lancaster, Cumberland, Vindictive, Edinburgh Castle, Orama and a depot supply ship.

Leap Year.

By the present method of reckoning time every year of which the number is divisible by four without a remainder is leap year, excepting the centennial, or even hundredth years, which are only leap years when divisible by four after suppressing the two ciphers. The year 1600 was a leap year, the years 1700, 1800 and 1900 were not leap years, but the year 2000 will be and every intervening year that is exactly divisible by four. From 1796 to 1804 and from 1896 to 1904 were eight-year intervals without a leap year.

"Cancer" in Plants.

Extensive researches by plant pathologists of the agricultural department on the development of crown galls upon plants show that these galls, which are caused by a bacterium, have many points of resemblance to human cancer.

Heart Affects Handwriting.

According to an English scientist there is an individuality in heart beats affecting the handwriting to such a degree that it can be identified when writing is magnified.

CROOKED, BUT FAMOUS.

Washington Street, Boston, One of the World's Great Thoroughfares.

Washington street in Boston is one of the great thoroughfares of America, worthy to rank with Broadway in New York and Michigan avenue in Chicago. Like nearly everything else in Boston, it has a history of almost incredible length and respectability, making other streets seem painfully young and callow and crude.

Moreover, Washington street is one of the longest in the world, running all the way through Boston and on to another town without a stop or a break. This is not accomplished without many a bend and meander, however, for Washington street is amazingly crooked, as are nearly all the thoroughfares of Puritan origin. It seems that the Mayflower party did not realize how big Boston was going to be, and so they carelessly let the cows lay out the streets as they wandered homeward.

Washington street today does not look like an aristocrat of ancient lineage, however. On the contrary, it appears decidedly democratic, swarming with all sorts of people who jostle and push each other on the narrow, overflowing sidewalks in the brilliant glare of numerous electric signs that flash the rival merits of moving picture shows, bars and cafes.—Exchange.

Too Much Music.

Street singing is an especially Neapolitan institution, and when for the first time one hears beneath his windows the more often than not off key versions of the snappy, lilting, inexpressibly infectious Neapolitan songs he is enchanted and throws pennies freely. After a week or so of it as a steady diet, day and night, he inclines much more toward heavy crockery.—National Geographic Magazine.

His Idea.

"Would you say that marriage is a failure?"

"Not exactly; it's more like a business venture."

"In what way?"

"Well, you can't blame the business for the failures that get into it."—Detroit Free Press.

Saving Money.

Mrs. Muggins—Don't you ever try to save any money? Mr. Muggins—Sure. I got a $1 today. Borrowell struck me for $5, and I only let him have $1.—Philadelphia Record.

It Was Possible.

Hicks—You haven't seen my chauffeur lately, have you? Marie—I don't know. Who is the man?—Boston Transcript.

Not Be Excused Early.

You can't play hooky from the school of experience.—Oklahoma City Times.

KINGSTON GIRLS DEFEAT NEWBURGH

Local Basketball Five Find Sweet Revenge in One Point Margin of Victory in Closely Contested Game—The Score.

One timely field basket scored in the last few seconds of play turned defeat into victory for the Kingston High School girls in their basketball game with the feminine athletes from Quassaick Hall, Newburgh, Saturday afternoon in the local gym. The whole match was bitterly fought and the final score of 36-35 brought to a close the most exciting girls' game ever witnessed on a home court. The attendance was good.

Viewed in the light of a tussle between high school girls, the encounter was a record-breaker, the large score being unusual and the playing replete with clever work on both sides. The Newburgh faction came up fully intending to win a second game from Kingston, having defeated them in their own territory early in the season.

Girls' rules were used and by them the vistors had an advantage as the Kingston girls favor the less rigid regulations used by the boys.

A general upheaval of the regular lineup was a strange sight for the rooters but it evidently worked well. New faces on the home team were Miss Bell and Miss Kingman at center and Miss Bruyn at guard, all of whom gave a good acount of themselves. Miss Joslovitz also helped out at the pivot job.

It took the Hall girls a long time to acquaint themselves with their strange environment. At half time Kingston had a safe lead of 22-15, but at the start of the fourth quarter their lead was cut to one point. The last period was a pretty nip-and-tuck-affair, the Maroonettes finally nosing out winners.

As it is very likely that to these two teams will fall the lot of fighting finally for the Hudson valley school championship, the rubber will be played on a neutral court, possibly at Poughkeepsie.

The lineup of the girls' game follows:

Despite the sharpness of the fray both contingents played clean games, one foul being called on each team. Miss Plymton, coach of the visitors, and Miss Seigle of the Kingston team officiated. Next Saturday the girls will play the Monticello school girls in the local gym.

The game between the Midgets of Kingston and Poughkeepsie did not take place as the latter's team failed to materialize.

SHERMAN L. WHIPPLE.

BOSTON LAWYER SELECTED TO HANDLE "LEAK" PROBE.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Sherman L. Whipple, of Boston, has been selected by the Rules Committee of the house to act as its counsel in the further investigation of the alleged White House "leak." An effort was made to have the committee settle upon Samuel Untermyer, of New York, but as Mr. Untermyer is personal counsel to William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, and one of those mentioned in testimony before the committee, and who has been summoned to testify, Mr. Untermyer was rejected. Mr. Whipple's name was suggested to the committee by Thomas W. Lawson. Mr. Whipple was the Democratic candidate against Henry Cabot Lodge in the Massachusetts race for the United States Senate.

The Greenwood Tree.

The greenwood tree of English song and story is now said to have been the holly, which retains its bright dress the year round and is supposed to have stood Robin Hood and other outlaws in good stead, when clad in Lincoln green, they sought its shelter, depending on the law of protective coloration to escape the laws of Nottingham town and other troublesomely inquisitive municipalities.

Adam Exonerated.

The minister was preaching on little things, how great events from trifling causes spring, and an obiter dictum was: "Did you ever reflect that a single man was the father of the human race?" Several members of the congregation subsequently assured each other that they regarded Adam as married.—Manchester Guardian.

Pity the Poor Editor.

Mingus (speaking of one who has just passed)—"He certainly has a squelched appearance." Sillbent—"No wonder. His wife won't let him express his mind at home, and his boss won't let him express it at the office." Mingus—"What's his business?" Sillbent—"He's a newspaper editor."—Life.

Eight Points of Law.

The eight points of law are, according to an old saying attributed to Mr. Selwyn, a former candidate for the chamberlaincy of the city of London: "1. a good cause; 2. a good purse; 3. an honest and skillful attorney; 4. good evidence; 5. able counsel; 6. an upright judge; 7. an intelligent jury; 8. good luck.

FLOYD WILLIAMS HAD SOME JAG

Rhinebeck Man so Drunk He Did Not Know His Own Name—Found Lying in a Gutter Downtown.

Floyd Williams came to Kingston on Saturday from Rhinebeck, and though he had a pair of skates with him it is not known whether he skated across, but at any rate he had skates with him and in him when found lying in a gutter on Hasbrouck avenue that evening by Policeman Van Buren.

About 7 o'clock Saturday evening as a young woman living in Ponckockie stood on the Abruyn street corner waiting for a trolley car three men passed her and from their conversation she thought they had robbed some man. Later she heard a man groaning and as the trolley car stopped to allow her to get aboard she informed the conductor who went back with the motorman and picked up Floyd. He was so drunk that he could not walk and had a bad cut over the eye. One of his trowser pockets had been ripped out, and to the passengers on the car it looked as though he had been robbed. He managed, drunk as he was, to fish out a five cent piece from another pocket and pay his fare. He had a pair of skates with him, but when questioned as to who he was or where he came from he was too drunk to reply.

Asked where he wanted to get off the car he mumbled so no one understood him. Near Murray street he was carried off the car and instructed to place his arms around a pole and hang on.

He followed instructions until the car started on when he tried to walk and fell in the gutter. There he was found later by Officer Van Buren.

The wound in his head bled freely and he presented a horrible spectacle. When taken to police headquarters Dr Snyder, a police surgeon, was summoned and attended him.

Sunday morning he had sobered up sufficiently to be arraigned before Recorder Lang. The court sentenced him to Albany pen, but suspended sentence provided he got out of town in an hour. He got.

CURIOUS CLUBS.

The Man Killers, Their Cheerful Talk and Fitting Fate.

One of the oldest purely social clubs was the Everlasting club, limited in membership to a hundred people, who divided the day among them in such a way that some of them were always on the premises. Solely for the purpose of keeping up the fire from which members lighted their pipes an old woman was kept, and during the fifty years of existence the club members smoked fifty tons of tobacco.

No one who had not killed an opponent in a duel was allowed to be a member of the Man Killing club, where the conversation was confined to wounds bullets and slaughter. Curiously enough, most of the members were executed.

Very different in character was the six o'clock club, whose members, numbering six only, met at 6 in the evening and separated at 6 in the morning. Meeting early in the evening and using smoking until midnight, the curious people forming the Humdrum club observed the strictest silence.

But perhaps the most curious club of all was the No Nose club which was founded by an unwilling follower of the Egyptian fashion of flat faces. —London Telegraph.

Persia's Great Superstition.

The greatest superstition in Persia is what is known as the "evil eye." You must not say to some one whom you meet, "How well you are looking!" for if you do and that person is taken ill it will be because you gave him the evil eye. You must not say to a mother, "What a pretty baby!" "What a bright child!" for if you do and anything unfortunate happens to the child you will be considered responsible. Many mothers let the children go dirty and poorly clothed in order that they may not attract favorable attention. The sign which is thought to have some power to avert the evil eye consists in holding the second and third fingers of both hands close to the palms with the thumbs, while the other fingers are extended straight out. Then, with the hands behind you, you make a downward movement three times.

THEY CAME FROM EAGLE'S NEST

Cornelius Hasbrouck and Rose Krom Got Drunk Together, Have a Taxi Ride and Land in Jail.

Cornelius Hasbrouck, colored, and Rose Krom, white, had an exciting time in Kingston together on Saturday afternoon. They were having a few social drinks in Conlon's saloon uptown, according to their story told to Recorder Lang this morning, and finally decided to go home. Both live at Eagle's Nest, back of Old Hurley. As it was too far to walk they called up a taxicab company and had a taxi sent to the saloon.

When the taxi driver, Harry Ferguson, reached the saloon and surveyed the pair he demanded his fare $2, in advance. The couple assured him he would get the money if he landed them at Cutler's Hotel in Hurley. He finally agreed and took them out to Hurley.

When he got there he said they both tried to elude him, but he bundled both fares back into the taxi and brought them back to Kingston dumping them out in front of the Kingston City Library, where they were placed under arrest by Policeman Shafer on a charge of public intoxication.

They spent Saturday night and Sunday in jail, and were arraigned this morning before Recorder Lang.

The taxi driver also appeared, and said he had not got his fare yet. The judge informed him he had no sympathy for him as he should have thought twice about taking two drunks to Hurley.

Cornelius pleaded hard for another chance saying he had a wife and three children at home.

The court fined Rose and Cornelius $5 each and instructed them to pay the taxi driver $1 each. As they had no money with them to pay the fine they were escorted to the county jail.

Struggle of the Rivers.

The discovery that there is a kind of struggle for existence and survival of the fittest among rivers is one of the most interesting results of the modern study of physiography. A notable example of this contest is exhibited by England's two biggest rivers, the Thames and the Severn. Between their valleys lie the Cotswold hills, and exploration shows that the Severn by eating backward among these hills where softer strata underlie them has diverted to itself some of the headwaters which formerly flowed into the Thames.

SCHOOL ORCHESTRA NOW OF 14 PIECES

Fourteen pieces now comprise the high school orchestra, which plays twice a week at assembly in the morning. Every student takes pride in these school musicians and without them the morning songs would lose much of their vim. Every member is now rewarded by a school credit for a year in the orchestra.

Members of the orchestra and their instruments are the following: First violins, Lawrence Cavanaugh, Treadwell and John Wilson, Hyman Weisberg, second violins, Joseph Jacobson, Katherine Pehleman, Jane Hogeboom, Pearl Stoddard, Eugene Ryan; cornets, Louis Schon, Felix Katz, flute, Clarence A. Reynolds, clarinet, James Keefe, piano, Miriam Pitts.

Miss Marguerite Paulding's painstaking efforts as conductress are largely responsible for the excellent work done.

Breaking It Gently.

"I have called, sir, to see the photo of the lady with $25,000 who wants a husband."

"Can you keep your face straight?"

"Of course I can."

"Very well. We'll break you in first with the $5,000 applicants, and then gradually as you grow stronger, we will work you up to the big prize. This way, please, and don't get frightened."—Exchange.

Boss at Home.

How can you tell that the conductor is the boss in his house?" asked the recruit.

"Simple," boasted the great detective. "That woman asked him where she got off, and he said 'I'll tell you where you get off.'"—Buffalo Express.

Desperation.

"Is dis high cost of livin' worryin' you?" asked Meandering Mike.

"It's drivin' me desperate," replied Plodding Pete. "I'm almost tempted to go to work."—Washington Star.

Stone Wall.

Novice—Why do they call it Wall street? Loser—Bump up against it and you'll find out.—New York Times.

Likely Tunes.

A Chicago surgeon says he employs music as an aid to surgery. The Chopin "Funeral March" as the accompaniment of a major operation. "We Don't Know Where We're Goin', but We're on Our Way?"

All Right, After All.

"When I was married," remarked the entertaining guest, "I had but half a shirt to my back," and while the guests were still gasping he said, "the other half of it being in front."—Browning's Magazine.

Hard to Reach.

Some men's meanness consists of their stinginess with their means. When they give up their meanness they will be willing to give up more of their means. Such men, however, are pretty hard to convert.

RECRUITS WANTED FOR U. S. ARMY

A chance for Kingston young men who want to join the army is being offered in the visit of Privates Timothy Mackey and William Hart, attached to the Poughkeepsie recruiting station and here for three days. The soldiers make their headquarters at Fischer's Hotel on the Strand and will be there until Wednesday night. Young men interested in an army career can obtain much information from these soldiers who have served in the Philippines and in various other parts of the world.

Under the new regulations it is possible for a man to be in active service for one year and then be placed on the reserve list, to be called out only in time of war. The enlistment period is seven years and three years are required in active service. At the end of that time the soldier may re enlist for seven years more or be passed to the reserve. The one year term comes in for soldiers whose service for that period is within the continental limits of the United States and at the end of a year if he is reported proficient and sufficiently trained, he may be furloughed to the army reserve at the direction of the secretary of war.

This last feature is believed to be one of the important features of the new military regulations, being designed to increase the number of young men who want an army training but desire to avoid the lengthy service. By this plan a young man can enlist and be furloughed at the end of a year if satisfactory service is given.

The president is authorized to appoint cadets to the United States Military Academy from among the enlisted men between the ages of 19 and 24 who have served not less than one year. There are also other positions open.

PRICES OF BEEF TAKE A NEW JUMP

Wholesale prices of beef took a jump of from two to three cents a pound today, explanations offered retailers being that a shortage of cattle is being felt in Chicago. According to the packers there are hardly any cattle coming into Chicago. Lamb also jumped from 18 and 19 cnts a pound to 22 cents at wholesale. Beef prices, therefore considered moderate compared to other items of foods which have been soaring were from 12½ to 13 cents a pound, went to 14 and 15 cents on today's lists. The retailers say there will be a corresponding raise in retail prices immediately. One of the latter dealers said that the packers assert they are losing money even with the latest raise figured into their returns.

Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) evening the members of the congregation of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will attend the tabernacle meetings in a body. Members will meet in the rear of the tabernacle by half past seven, and will march forward and sit together in the section that will be reserved.

On Thursday evening the annual business meeting of the church will be held at the close of the prayer meeting. Reports, elections and other business will be transacted.

Next Sunday evening will be observed as Christian Endeavor Day, and the service will be in charge of the Young Peoples Society. The pastor will preach a special sermon to young people.

Schantz to Manage Mohican.

George Schantz, who for the past several months has been employed as butcher in the Mohican store on Wall street, has been appointed manager of the store to succeed Mr. Gilbert, who has been promoted to the management of the company's 30th store in Pittsburgh. Mr. Schantz for a time conducted a market here and has a large number of friends who are pleased to hear of his promotion. During his employment at the Mohican store he has always taken an interest in the business and through his courteous treatment has made many friends. He will assume his duties as manager immediately.

Friendship.

Friendship is an order of nobility; from its revelations we come more worthy into nature.—Emerson.

Highest Qualities at Lowest Cost

With experience of many years we offer the public choice brands of Wines and Liquors under a guarantee that better quality cannot be obtained. We do not take space to describe the good qualities of each brand, but cover the whole ground with the statement that all are as near perfection as it is possible to make them. They are intended for the highest class trade, the most particular buyer and for the home or hotelkeeper who wants the best at the least cost.

Brevity.

Robert Louis Stevenson was a close student of style and has left more than one interesting discussion of the technique of writing. In a letter to R. A. M. Stevenson, dated October, 1883, he says:

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Headaches.

In these modern times a headache is just as necessary and useful as a fire alarm. It is a warning that something is wrong and that somebody had better get on the job instanter and alter conditions.

What is the commonest cause of headache? There are a hundred or more different causes. Overfatigue, not enough sleep, sleeping in a stuffy room, overeating or eating something that disagrees with the stomach, some slight eye defect, an infection or congestion of the nasal passage caused by cold—any of these and many more things bring on headaches. Chronic inflammation within the nose itself and also within the bony cavities of the skull which open into the nose will cause intense headaches at times. Persistent headaches are danger signals that warn you to consult a physician.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 22.—As search continues in the wreckage of the blown-up ammunition plant in East London the death list increases. It is estimated by the Daily Mail that the final death roll will prove to be between 300 and 400. The explosion blasted a hole 80 feet deep and 100 yards in diameter. Around this there is an area of wreckage six acres in extent. The blast blew off the top of a tank liberating 8,000,000 feet of illuminating gas. This caught fire, throwing a column of flame two miles into the air.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 22.—Although there were irregular changes in the leading issues at the opening of the stock exchange today, the tone was strong and prices generally were substantially above Saturday's close. Most interest was attached to the shipping shares, because of the news that the German raider had been sunk off Para. Marine Common rose a point to 35⅝ and the preferred 1⅜ to 92¼. Steel Common ranged from 114½ to 114⅝, against 114⅝ at the close Saturday and the minor steel industrials generally made fractional gains. General Motors (new) rose 2⅜ to 125¼ and Maxwell Motor a point to 60. Long Island rose ¾ to 42. The railway issues generally were firm, with Union Pacific advancing ⅝ to 144⅜, and Reading, which sold ex-dividend of one per cent at 102⅜, a net gain of ¼. Bethlehem Steel opened down a point at 434 and then recovered the loss.

The market was unsettled in the late forenoon due to the announcement that President Wilson was to address the senate this afternoon. Prices of nearly all the important issues sustained rapid declines ranging from 2 to 3 points. Marine Preferred dropped to 89½, and rallied to 90. The common yielded from 35½ to 33⅜. Steel Common fell from 114⅞ to 113½. The specialties suffered the heaviest losses. General Motors dropped to 123½. The copper stocks dropped 1 to 2 points. The railways yielded about a point. Money loaning at 2 per cent.

After the street had become informed of President Wilson's address there was a sudden change in market sentiment and nearly all important issues regained a good part of their losses. Marine Common rallied to above 34 and the preferred to 91¼. Steel Common rose to 113⅜.

The market closed strong. In the last hour nearly everything in which there was active trading made substantial advances.

Kijkuit Club.

The regular meeting of the Kijkuit Club will be held on Tuesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, promptly, at St. John's parish house on Wall street. As work will be done for the coming sale, every member is asked to be present.

McEnelly Concert and Dance.

McEnelly's Famous Singing Orchestra, whose popularity is so established that neither time nor rival competitors seem to have the slightest effect on their drawing power, will be the attraction at the state armory Thursday evening, January 25. The concert rendered by this famous band of musicians is really worth the price of admission alone, as music lovers who attend these concerts and dances held under the auspices of Company M can attest. These musicians turn from masterful renditions of captivating music to the most uproarious bits of musical travesty. The instruments they employ produce some stirring effects.

Among dance-lovers little has to be said in the way of an introduction of McEnelly's Orchestra. The announcement that they will appear at the armory Thursday night of this week is sufficient. Their coming is regarded as one of the principal musical and dancing events of each month.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The postponed meeting of the Junior Ladies' Aid Society of the St. James M. E. Church will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Taylor, 318 Albany avenue. This meeting should be largely attended as it will be the election of officers.

The Epworth League of St. James's M. E. Church will hold its business meeting and social tonight at 8 o'clock in the church parlors. Hiram Sutton, as chairman of the refreshment committee, will serve coffee, sandwiches and crullers. A president will be elected to succeed Clarence Schoonmaker, who resigned to take up Y. M. C. work in Schenectady, and every member is urged to be present.

How They Are Saluted.

Salute to the national flag, the president and ex-president of the United States and the presidents or sovereigns of foreign states, twenty-one guns; vice president of the United States and foreign ambassadors, nineteen guns; the president of the senate, speaker of the house of representatives, cabinet officers, chief justice, governors within their respective states or territories, governors general of foreign states, civil governors of the Philippine Islands, general of the army, admiral of the navy and same ranks in foreign armies and navies, seventeen guns; United States and foreign ministers plenipotentiary, vice governor of the Philippine Islands, assistant secretaries of war or navy, lieutenant general or major general commanding the army and corresponding ranks in the navies, fifteen guns; ministers resident, major generals, rear admirals and corresponding ranks in foreign armies and navies, thirteen guns; charge d'affaires, brigadier generals and corresponding ranks in foreign armies and navies, eleven guns; consuls general, nine guns.

Dawn and the Darkest Hour.

"The darkest hour is just before dawn," is an old English proverb which expresses more poetically the homelier adages, "When things are at their worst they soonest mend," "When gale is highest boat is nighest," "The longest day will have an end," "After a storm comes a calm," and finds an equivalent in other languages, as in French, "By dint of going wrong all will come right;" in Italian, "Ill is the eve of well;" in Persian, "It is at the narrowest part of the defile that the valley begins to open," and in Hebrew, "When the tale of bricks is doubled Moses comes."

That the nights, as a rule, are darkest just before dawn is doubtless true, for the moon has then reached far on to the western horizon, while the sun is still below the eastern horizon.

DAIRY and CREAMERY

RAISING DAIRY CALVES.

Best Results Follow When Youngsters Are Weaned at Birth.

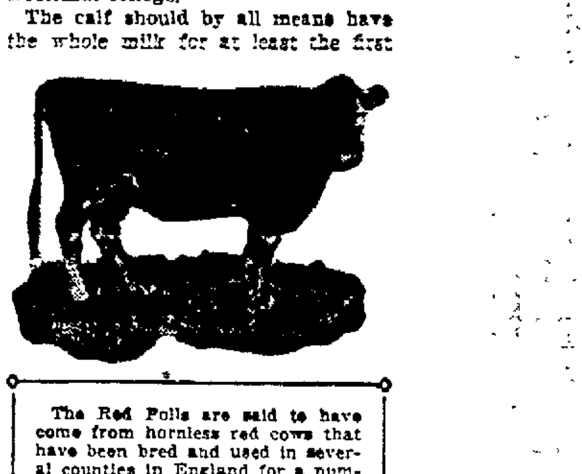
If the young calf must be taken early from its mother take it at birth, as teaching it to drink from the pail will then be made easier, according to J. B. Fitch, associate professor of dairy husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

The calf should by all means have the whole milk for at least the first



The Red Polls are said to have come from hornless red cows that have been bred and used in several counties in England for a number of years. Red Poll breeders believe that the old "muley" cow of old times is the direct descendant of animals brought to America from England by the earliest settlers. Red Polls are used more or less in the middle west and south. The cow shown is a Red Poll.

week. The milk may be fed in two feeds—night and morning—but better results are obtained by feeding three times a day.

The time to change the calf from whole milk to skimmilk depends upon the development of the calf. If it is healthy it may be changed to skimmilk at the end of the second week, but the third week would be better. This change must be made gradually by putting a small quantity of skimmilk into each feeding. About a week or ten days is required. In this way, the calf learns to like the skimmilk without noticing the change.

The right temperature for the milk is 100 degrees. It should be fed at as nearly this temperature as possible. Feeding cold milk at one meal and warm milk at another upsets the digestive system of the young calf.

It is also important to feed the milk sweet. A single feed of sour milk might cause serious trouble for the young calf. Better let it miss a feed or even two than give it sour milk. The pails out of which it is fed must be kept clean and sterile.

THE WORTHLESS SCRUB.

Only Pure Bred Dairy Bulls Should Be Used In the Herd.

In buying the pure bred sire we buy more than the individual. We buy blood of noted ancestry, says the Orange Judd Farmer. We must expect to pay more for an animal that is not only a good individual, but also has the power of transmitting this quality to his progeny. The scrub may be a good individual, but there is no certainty as to what he may beget.

In the dairy world today it is not enough that a sire be pure bred, but he must have proof of performance in his lineage. Recently one farmer talking to another remarked, "What are those yearling heifers worth, $15 a head?" "Why, I have had chances to sell them for more than $100 each. They are from register of merit cows," the other replied. There is the difference between an ordinary heifer and one with a high producing cow as the dam.

If there is that much difference in heifers, what would be the difference in sires that are to head herds? The sire is half the herd and then some. Some men point to one sire that has made their herds famous. Many others could attribute their failure to scrub bulls rightly, but they never do it. It has taken man many lifetimes to build up the pure bred animals we have. Why not help build the standard higher by paying a little bit more and getting something good? Many stockmen who have grade herds are finding out that the scrub bull is worse than worthless.

Winter Shelter For Cows.

Are you prepared to make your cow comfortable this winter? If not you cannot expect her to do her best, no matter how well you feed her. You should have a stall for your cow with a comfortable tie or stanchion and a floor that can be kept clean. It should be warm, but must be so arranged as to provide plenty of fresh air and sunlight. If you have a large Holstein cow plan for a stall three and a half feet wide and five feet long from the tie to the gutter. For small cows, like Jerseys, a stall three feet wide and four and a half feet long is about right. If you have a cement floor use plenty of bedding. Your cow cannot be comfortable if compelled to lie down on bare cement.

been shown, and while some of the features may have been objectionable, on the whole, the pictures have been clean and educational as well as beautiful. Those deserving special mention at the opera house have been "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Romeo and Juliet," "Extravagance," and the production of today, "A Daughter of the Gods," a pretty fairy tale with enchanting music but with its beauty spoiled by the horrible life in a Sultan's harem, and incidents at a slave market. There have been many excellent lesser productions. At the Orpheum the big productions have been "The Battle Cry of Peace," "Purity," "Civilization," and a very fine presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" with Theda Bara in the leading role; "Inspiration," with Miss Munson, who posed as the model for the wonderful statues at the San Francisco Fair; and "The Social Buccaneer," a minor production well acted.

Y. M. C. A. Given O. K.

The Y. M. C. A. has received no adverse criticism. The pictures have been clean, educational and entertaining, an excellent place of amusement for our young people. Mention was made of the present serial, "The Scarlet Runner." This is under the same management as the opera house.

The Star is a small picture and vaudeville house on Broadway, where the vaudeville acts are changed twice a week. Two serials are running. No objection to either, and the manager assumed the committee that no burlesque would be run. A sign on the walls of this house reads, "No children under 16 years allowed unless accompanied by their parents, etc." Apparently every man and woman attending had children with them, and the report commented upon the fact that evidently the parents needed censuring more than the managers. While some very good pictures had been seen at this house, it was questioned whether the Diamond Dick style of play did not offer undesirable heroes for the attending small boy.

While the pictures at The Lyric, a small house on the Strand had been reported as all right, they had not come under the personal supervision of the chairman who expected to report on this house at the next meeting.

Sewing in the Schools.

Mrs. Fessenden, chairman of the Social Center Association, said that the work of the association was confined to the sewing classes at School No. 3, and was largely made possible through the generosity of one person. Hopes are entertained that a Parent-Teachers' Association will be formed which will take over the entire work, which is in charge of Miss Ruth Ashley of the Domestic Arts Department of the high school. It was regrettable that the workers are so few when the children anxious to learn to sew are so many. At the close of the term just before the holidays a little party was given the sewing classes, and each girl who could show a completed article was awarded a prize. Refreshments were served, and every child present promised to continue sewing at home. They all begged to be registered in the second term work. Not nearly all of the children anxious to enter the classes can be taken care of, the best than can be done, being to register them for future classes.

Red Cross Seal Sales.

The last committee report was one of the most interesting, being given by Dr. Day, chairman of the Public Health Committee, who told of the committee having taken active part in the recent Red Cross Christmas Seal sale. Last year, with a paid worker, the sales, through the sale-by-mail plan broke all previous records, the total sale amounting to $2,608. This year, with the help of the Tuberculosis Visiting Nurse, whose services the past year were made possible by last year's seal sale, the gross sales already amount to $2,665, with accounts not all in yet. At the beginning of the year, the Public Health Committee asked permission of the federation to use the funds accredited to the committee, to buy spectacles for indigent school children. Dr. Day stated that ever since she had been medical inspector of our schools, it had been indeed distressing that the needs of some of the children could not be met because of lack of means. While Miss Deiche, the school nurse, had been most faithful in urging parents to give proper care to their children, six children have been found needing glasses which were provided from the public health fund of the federation. It is now hoped that those six children, who heretofore have been unable to get any good at all from school, due to defective eyesight, will now be able to make satisfactory progress.

Good Work of Doctors.

Thanks are due Drs. Nelson, Baker and Gates for giving gratuitous medical services in these cases. Thanks to Dr. Gates and Dr. Sam Stern, one boy with a fine new eye (almost impossible to detect from observation) in place of the one which had to be removed, is now a happy lad instead of a downcast and unhappy child. Dr. Day went on to briefly describe the recent Lovett Clinic for infantile paralysis patients, held at the county laboratory, and stated that four school children were taken to the clinic. Two were cripples of long standing, but it was hoped that by following the advice given and with the aparatus prescribed, their condition would improve. The two cases of more recent date, it is hoped, will make a complete recovery. Dr. Day closed her report by saying, "No language of mine can express to you the good which, I believe, will come to the children of this state, if the advice of Dr. Lovett is caried out. I beg of all club women to use all their influence to have this done.'

Child Welfare Exhibits.

It was announced that the National Child Welfare exhibit, under the patronage of the federation would occur on the afternoon and evenings on January 29, 30 and 31, in the vacant store in the Cordts building next to the court house. The Parent-Teachers' Association of the city will co-operate with the federation in the presenting of this exhibit.

It was then voted that the corresponding secretary should send a letter to Mrs. Moulton, president of the federation expressing the regret of all members at her enforced absence through illness and the hope for her speedy recovery, and also making known to her the federation's appreciation of her efficient services as president, taking the reins of office at a time of financial reverses, and upholding and encouraging the federation during its present reconstruction period.

Farewell for Dr. Day.

Mrs. John Searing then asked for the privilege of speaking, and in the name of the Woman's Suffrage Committee, invited all present to attend a reception, not at all suffrage in its character, but given as an appreciation of Dr. Day, who is soon to leave Kingston. This reception will be held at Wiltwyck Inn on Thursday afternoon next at 3 o'clock, and at that time several persons will speak of the various ways in which Dr. Day has been of great service to the community.

Benefits of Federation.

The meeting was then formally turned over to the Lowell Club, the entertaining body, and Mrs. Mary Bruyn, president of the club, welcomed the guests of the day, and very graciously introduced Mrs. Brown, state president and Mrs. Cameron, district director. Mrs. Cameron was the first to speak, and said that after hearing of all the splendid Federation work being done in Kingston, she felt as she did when a young mother she was asked to speak at a "Mothers' Meeting" on the "Desirability of Infant Baptism." As her babies had been baptized in infancy she went enthusiastically to the meeting to find three grandmothers and seven spinsters. While her remarks in either case might be unnecessary she would tell the women, as she had planned, what she considered the advantages of federation. She would sum them up under five C's: Companionship, here could be found the best and choicest of companions for any woman; consideration, for in the working together one must be considerate and unselfish; conservation, of every activity in life could be found to be most efficiently operative through systematic federation; co-opertion, wherein the strength of unity was found to completely overcome the weakness of individual effort; and finally continuity of work, since in so large and complete an organization of women, no good nor needed work had to be abandoned because of the failure to persevere on the part of some individual or club. Mrs. Cameron herself had found that in attending the federation conventions she had been so filled with inspiration and practical suggestions that she was like the little tot who had just finished her third dish of mush and milk. As her mother went to lift her from her high chair she exclaimed: "Mother, lift I up and put I down, but don't bend I," which apt story brought down the house. Mrs. Cameron closed with an urgent appeal that all clubs send delegates to the district meetings and conventions, paying their expenses, as it was by no means the women financially able to attend these gatherings who were always the best suited to do so.

Mrs. Bruyn next called upon Mrs. Howard Gillespy of Saugerties, the retiring director of this district, who expressed her gratification at being able to be present to welcome the new president and director. Mrs. Gillespy had some excellent advice to give the federation, culled from her experiences as director, paid a fine tribute to Mrs. Fessenden, the district chairman, and thanked the federation for having made her a director for the term just expired.

State President Speaks.

Mrs. Brown, the new president, at once won all hearts by her simple, sincere and earnest manner. She began by "talking over" many matters of special interest to federation women, among which was the fact that New York state now has 33,000 federated women, which interesting truth will appear on the new federation stationery. Going beyond the federation confines, Mrs. Brown urged all present to actively interest themselves in every movement looking toward the Americanization of our foreign born population, and told of the schools in Rochester where adult foreigners are being taught directly the old original "Rs," and indirectly good American citizenship. While the speaker advocated the open door to foreigners, she was emphatic in the opinion that if such foreigners are not willing to take advantage of the opportunities for citizenship offered them, their journey could not last. Though a peace lover, Mrs. Brown was not for "peace at any price," and urged that preparedness which shall make of our good citizens patriotic sons of America. Prison reform, charity, according to the Jewish definition, "First justice, then love," care of the feebleminded were all considered briefly by Mrs. Brown, who expressed the opinion that the report of the local Theater Approval Committee should find its way to the Bureau of Reciprocity. Other departments of federation work she mentioned, but urged efficient home care and keeping as the first and most important duty of every woman of the federation. This genuine and inspiring address brought the meeting to a close, and the federation gave a rising vote of thanks to the Lowell Club for their entertainment in bringing to Kingston Mrs. Brown, state president, and Mrs. Cameron, district director.

WOMAN TO GIVE EVIDENCE OF "WHITE HOUSE LEAK."

Mrs. Ruth Thomason Visconti, the mysterious Washington woman detective, who has been summoned to appear before the Rules Committee of the house to tell what she knows about alleged leaks in governmental matters. Mrs. Visconti is the woman who Thomas W. Lawson declares volunteered information to him regarding the stock deals in which Joseph Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, is alleged to have been involved.
